Notice of Retraction: Dynamic Muscle Transfer in Facial Nerve Palsy: The Use of Contralateral Orbicularis Oculi Muscle

Saghir Ahmed Sadiq, MBBS, DO, MRCOphth, FRCS, FRCOphth, DM[1,2]
Aruna Dharmasena, MBBS, MRCSEd, FRCOphth[1,3]

[1] Manchester Royal Eye Hospital, Manchester, United Kingdom
[2] Visiting Professor, Liverpool John Moores University, United Kingdom
[3] Adnexal Service, Moorfields Eye Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, London, United Kingdom

Facial Plast Surg 2015;31:e1.

Address for correspondence Saghir Ahmed Sadiq, MBBS, DO, MRCOphth, FRCS, FRCOphth, DM, Manchester Royal Eye Hospital, Manchester, M13 9WH, United Kingdom (e-mail: a.sadiq@manchester.ac.uk).

Retraction Notice

Concerning the above article (Facial Plast Surg 2015;31 (02):145–151; doi: 10.1055/s-0035-1549037), the Editors have been made aware of a significant overlap with another article “Advances in Facial Reanimation” by Tate and Tollefson published in Current Opinion in Otolaryngology & Head and Neck Surgery (2006;14(04):242–248; doi: 10.1097/01.moo.0000233594.84175.a0).

For this reason, the Editorial Board gives the notice that the article is retracted by the Editors in accordance with COPE guidelines.

Issue Theme Current Concepts, State of the Art Treatment of Facial Paralysis; Guest Editor: Patrick J. Byrne, MD, FACS

Thieme Medical Publishers, Inc., 333 Seventh Avenue, 18th Floor, New York, NY 10001, USA

DOI https://doi.org/10.1055/s-0035-1549037.
ISSN 0736-6825.