Synthesis of PDE4 Inhibitors

Comment: The transformation was accompanied by 15% of the product resulting from displacement of the chlorine at C2. Investigation of alternative bases and solvents failed to improve the regioselectivity; however, the undesired regioisomer was significantly more soluble than and was completely removed from the product during the isolation by filtration.