The Editors-in-Chief wish to acknowledge the contribution of the reviewers listed below who have generously contributed expertise and time during 2019 to improve the content of Neuropediatrics. A peer-reviewed journal vitally depends on its reviewers, who provide their knowledge on the many different topics addressed in the manuscripts submitted. Every experienced author knows that many of the often painful questions and points of criticism brought up by the reviewers finally help to improve the manuscript substantially. Sometimes the authors might feel misunderstood. However, if an expert in the field does not understand the intended message, the standard reader hardly will. In these instances the reviewers take active part in promoting the field and supporting the scientific community by constructive criticism. Your service to Neuropediatrics is greatly appreciated.

The following are our Top Ten Reviewers of the Year:
